Roger, thanks for including the HR's in your concerns. Paula and I visited recently with our daughter, son-in-law, and new grandson on Gotland, a Swedish island on the Baltic. We are now in London and have visited St. Paul's, Westminster, Handel's house, and John Newton's church. My spiritual understanding in all of this is that the Cultural Mandate is critical for Christians to understand and practice--but without the extremes of the Theonomists. My presence with a booth (#240) at GA to make available works from all disciplines is part of my effort to assist other Christians in this understanding. I feel it is critical today to re-engage the Mandate, otherwise the Church--as it is in America and in Europe-- is severely affected due to the lack of understanding and presence in the culture. Please ask the brothers to visit us at the Fortress lamp post at GA this month.

In Christ,
