Fathers and Brothers,

Greetings from Illinois. I've just completed my first academic year as a PhD student in systematic theology at Trinity Evangelical Divinity School. It was a rather difficult year in many ways, but God has sustained us and provided for us. We continue to feel that he has called us here.

Most Sundays we've worshiped at Church of the Redeemer, an Anglican Church in North America congregation. By God's grace our faith has been nourished by the Word of God, the Lord's Supper, and corporate prayers and praise. I've preached three times in the past year at Cornerstone Church (EFCA) in Grafton, WI, and have been asked to return three more times in the coming months. I thank God that he has allowed me the privilege of ministering his word through these opportunities to preach as well as through my work with Belhaven University as an online adjunct instructor.

We greatly miss First Presbyterian Church in Louisville.

Soli Deo Gloria,

TE Roy McDaniel
